

Grass Root Meeting Showed Hoover Definitely After 1936 Nomination

WASHINGTON — Grapevine reports on the Grass Root confab received by Republican generalissimo on Capitol Hill give some significant highlights on the meeting.

According to these the Springfield gathering established three facts:

1. That Herbert Hoover definitely covets the 1936 nomination.

2. That the former President is not popular with the rank and file.

3. That the field is wide open, none of the other known aspirants as yet displaying strong backing.

The conviction among the inside leaders that Hoover has his eye on next year's banner is based on the large representation of "Hoover men" at the gathering.

Among the most prominent of these were former War Secretary Pat Hurley, former Agriculture Secretary Arthur Hyde, former White House secretary Walter Newton, and "Tanglefoot Bob" Lucas, former Executive Secretary of the Republican National Committee.

The coolness of the delegates toward Hoover was evidenced both publicly and privately. The resolutions adopted contained no mention of him or his Administration either directly or indirectly. Scouts report that in the lobbies and anterooms the sentiment was universal that the party could not make another run with Hoover at its helm.

Other Hopefuls

Of the other hopefuls, the private reports say there was much "talk" but no manifestation of strength.

The name of Frank Knox was the most frequently heard. Senators "Hell-Roaring" Dick Dickinson and Arthur Vandenberg came in for some mention, but the scouts attribute this chiefly to the fact that they are mid-westerners and well known to the delegates.

The real surprise in the gossip about candidates was the frequent and favorable mention of Representative "Ham" Fish, burly New York socialite.

It has been known for some time that Fish was quietly pushing his candidacy, but the leaders were inclined to view this as a joke. They are not taking him seriously even now, but they were impressed by the extent of his proselyting.

Delegates from as widely scattered points as Oklahoma, Indiana and Wisconsin spoke of having been contacted by Fish.

Advertising

Outside the door of the most popular Springfield hotel during the Grass Root convention, a newsboy stood from early morning until late night, shouting: "Read the Chicago Daily News, the greatest Republican newspaper of the Middle West," published by Frank Knox.

Mitchell Clamor

Most important behind the scenes factors in the Ewing Mitchell clamor about Commerce Department graft are:

1. That Mitchell himself scarcely knew what it was all about. There is plenty of inefficiency in the Commerce Department, but he was not the man to clean it up.

2. There was a bitter row between Mitchell and the Prendergast political machine in Kansas City. Prendergast and the Missouri Senators were out to get Mitchell.

Based solely upon Mitchell's usefulness to the Commerce Department he could have

New Working Agreement Sought to Prevent Strike; Await Guffey Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 24—Representatives of soft coal operators and union miners gathered here today with their best poker faces in a reported attempt to negotiate a new working contract. The last contract expired June 16 but 400,000 miners agreed with President Roosevelt to continue to work under the old basis until Sunday midnight.

With administration leaders declaring it impossible to reach the Guffey coal control bill until early in July, miner executives are using every argument to negotiate a new agreement, but the operators are resisting as they have for the past two years.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, insists the strike call will go out next Sunday if the Guffey bill is not passed or a wage contract is not agreed upon, but the general consensus is that the strike will be delayed until congress takes a vote on the Guffey bill.

FEDERAL MAN PARES DUTIES

Stillman Quits as Regional FERA Chief; Confines Duties to Ohio.

COLUMBUS, June 24—Charles C. Stillman, federal relief director for Ohio, today announced he has resigned his position as regional director for the Federal Emergency Relief administrator, effective immediately.

He will be succeeded by Wayne Coy, of Indianapolis, Ind., but the territory has been rearranged. Stillman declared.

While the region has included Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia, the new alignment of states, under Coy's supervision, will include Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and New Jersey.

Is FERA Director Stillman's announcement said he is resigning his regional directorship to concentrate his activities on a dual job in Ohio alone.

He is FERA director and Works Progress Administrator for this state, and the responsibility of the two posts "makes it imperative that he devote all of his attention to those two responsibilities," state relief officials declared.

Coy is expected to come here from Indianapolis tomorrow. Stillman said to formally take over the regional post.

Federal officials have not revealed where regional offices are to be maintained, but Stillman said Coy will probably make his headquarters at state relief headquarters here or at relief offices in Washington, D. C.

Spaght to Inquire into Williams' Story of Marysville Reformatory

OUST 'INFORMER'

Says Food Inspector Violated His Orders

COLUMBUS, June 24.—Claiming that George C. Williams, food supervisor for the state welfare department, had violated department rules, Oakley Spaght, assistant state welfare director, today announced he plans to launch an investigation which he said may lead to Williams' dismissal.

Spaght, declaring that Williams has "ignored orders of his superiors" in making public statements relative to his inspections of state institutions, said:

"I am launching an immediate investigation, following which I expect to confer with Gov. Martin L. Davey to determine whether it will not be best for the department to dismiss Mr. Williams."

"Poor Conditions"

Center of numerous stormy incidents in the welfare department, Williams' latest activity, which drew the ire of welfare department officials, was a public statement charging officials at the Marysville reformatory for women with sanctioning "unsanitary conditions" at the institution.

Informed of Williams' charges today, Spaght said he had no knowledge of an "investigation of conditions" at the Marysville institution by Williams.

He declared Williams has been cautioned repeatedly against violating rules of the department in making public statements about conditions in state institutions, without the approval of his department chiefs.

"Mr. Williams was appointed as supervisor of foods," declared Spaght, "because we felt he was well qualified to pass on preparation of meals and operation of kitchens in state institutions. At no time has he been authorized to represent the department as an investigator of conditions outside the institution kitchens."

Mrs. Myrna Smith, secretary to Governor Davey, said she had no knowledge of Williams' investigations.

Davey and Mrs. Margaret Allan, state welfare director, were reported out of the city today and could not be reached for statements following Williams' charges relative to the Marysville institution.

It was learned that officials of the welfare department have, for several weeks, endeavored to in-

Maybe the Pickaway-co sheriff's office is going to get a new car, and maybe it is not.

The commissioners several weeks ago asked bids for a new machine to replace the Studebaker the office has had and which has rendered good service. The bids, a large number of them, were received and opened but the county dads decided that the choice of the car should be up to the sheriff.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff does not relish this responsibility and has said that he will not make the selection. The commissioners believe the sheriff should pick his own car.

As the situation now stands the old Studebaker will probably be repaired and kept in service.

SENATOR HITS TAX CHISELERS

Pollock Urges Effort to Collect All Sales Tax Now Available.

COLUMBUS, June 24—Charging that thousands of dollars is lost through "chiseling" of the retail sales tax by Ohio vendors, State Senator R. A. Pollock (R.) of Canton, today scored the state tax commission for reducing personnel "when every effort should be made to collect all available sales tax revenues to obviate the necessity of enacting new tax measures."

Senator Pollock, who came to the capital to confer with other members of a special senate taxation committee charged with responsibility of investigating the operation of the sales tax law, said he will ask the committee to recommend employment of "scores of women tax investigators" to ferret out evidence of "chiseling."

"If we would collect all the revenue that should be collected under the sales tax there would be no need for more tax money," Pollock ventured.

The senate committee will meet here Wednesday to launch its sales tax investigation.

At that time Pollock said, he will urge the committee to suggest employment of local women and girls in every county of the state to make purchases and observe the manner in which vendors collect the sales tax.

DAVEY ANGERED BY OSU PREXY

COLUMBUS, June 24— Verbal brickbats hurled half-way across the state today renewed interest here in the controversy over Gov. Martin L. Davey's budget slash for Ohio State university.

Speaking at a rally of Democrats in Lorain, Governor Davey asserted that "it may be time to look around for a new administration" if the university cannot get along with its reduced appropriation.

John Kaiser of Marietta, chairman of the university's board of trustees, stated when informed of the governor's remarks that he has "every confidence" in President George Rightmire. He added he did not believe the controversy "as serious as either side thinks."

"It is just a case of two men differing," was the way he diagnosed the dispute.

NEW FDR TAX PLAN NEARING BALLOT TODAY

Definite Instructions from White House Awaited in Congress

LONG, BORAH FOR IT

Vote on Sales Tax to Open Arguments

WASHINGTON, June 24—Congress was ready today to enact at least a part of President Roosevelt's new share-the-wealth tax program into law at this session. Leaders eagerly sought go-ahead instructions from the White House. They have received reports that the president wants his sensational plans written into law this summer, but they want something specific from him.

The proposed levies would slash deeply into the nation's great personal and corporate fortunes. They include high inheritance and gift taxes on large estates, "very high" taxes on incomes above $1,000,000, and a graduated tax on corporate net incomes ranging from 10% to 16% percent.

Support Growing

Sentiment for immediate action has piled to vigorous proportions. Both Speaker Byrns and the senate Democrat leader, Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas, have joined the chorus of demands that congress settle to work on the tax schedules now. If this is done, the dog days will find the legislators still hard at work.

Senate consideration of the resolution to extend for another year the $500,000,000 of emergency sales taxes which would otherwise expire June 30 will be the signal for open debate on the President's suggestions.

Thus far, only Louisiana's kingfish, Senator Huey P. Long, has discussed the proposal on the floor. Huey said he would go along with the president if he tried to put the taxes through, but added that he doubted if Mr. Roosevelt really wants the schedules imposed.

Borah in Favor

Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, was the latest member of congress to go on record in favor of action now. He issued a lengthy statement approving the proposals, and said:

"This program out to be considered as a just and timely readjustment of our tax laws in the light of our stupendous expenditures."

TROOPS CALLED IN LUMBER STRIKE

TACOMA, Wash., June 24— At the order of Gov. Clarence D. Martin, 300 national guard troops marched into Tacoma today to guard eight lumber mills which have opened in an attempt to break the paralyzing lumber strike here.

Decision to move the 2nd battalion of the 161st infantry into the strike area came suddenly late last night after conferences between Gov. Martin of Washington and Gov. Charles H. Martin of Oregon.

A statement in which both governors concurred was issued shortly before the troops rolled into Tacoma in 16 motor trucks. They declared that "law and order must be preserved at all costs."

OUST 'INFORMER'

Says Food Inspector Violated His Orders

COLUMBUS, June 24.—Claiming that George C. Williams, food supervisor for the state welfare department, had violated department rules, Oakley Spaght, assistant state welfare director, today announced he plans to launch an investigation which he said may lead to Williams' dismissal.

Spaght, declaring that Williams has "ignored orders of his superiors" in making public statements relative to his inspections of state institutions, said:

Mr. Finch, who operates the A. J. Hott Co. Funeral home, was in an automobile crash on the S. High-st viaduct.

He was unconscious when taken to the hospital in the automobile of Safety Director W. S. Peeler of Columbus who was passing the scene.

Mr. Finch is one of Pickaway-co's best known men.

Mrs. Armstrong's

Father Is Drowned

Lucas-co officials today were searching for the body in Lake Erie of Wilbur H. Turner of Toledo, father of Mrs. Robert Armstrong, this city, who drowned Sunday when a row boat which he had rented to go fishing overturned.

The boat was rented by Mr. Turner at Reno Beach, near Toledo. Several hours later the boat was found overturned one and one-half miles from shore.

Identification of the man was made by the license plate on his automobile.

Mrs. Armstrong and her husband, a Pickaway-co deputy sheriff, left Sunday afternoon for Toledo.

Howard Goff Hurt

Goff suffered a compound fracture of the left leg and a fracture of the right hip. Efforts were being made to save him without amputation of the left leg.

Goff was pinned beneath his milk wagon. He drives for the Kimball and Grove Milk Co. The injured man was given a blood transfusion Sunday night.

He is married and is father of a daughter.

Mrs. Jack Wardell is an aunt, Arthur Barthelmas is a cousin and members of the Krimmel family in Jackson-twp are also cousins. Goff's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Goff, both of whom are deceased.

The Schumm car was damaged.

Commissioners and Sheriff Deadlocked Over New Automobile

Maybe the Pickaway-co sheriff's office is going to get a new car, and maybe it is not.

The commissioners several weeks ago asked bids for a new machine to replace the Studebaker the office has had and which has rendered good service. The bids, a large number of them, were received and opened but the county dads decided that the choice of the car should be up to the sheriff.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff does not relish this responsibility and has said that he will not make the selection. The commissioners believe the sheriff should pick his own car.

As the situation now stands the old Studebaker will probably be repaired and kept in service.

SENATOR HITS TAX CHISELERS

Pollock Urges Effort to Collect All Sales Tax Now Available.

COLUMBUS, June 24.—Charging that thousands of dollars is lost through "chiseling" of the retail sales tax by Ohio vendors, State Senator R. A. Pollock (R.), of Canton, today scored the state tax commission for reducing personnel "when every effort should be made to collect all available sales tax revenues to obviate the necessity of enacting new tax measures."

Senator Pollock, who came to the capital to confer with other members of a special senate taxation committee charged with responsibility of investigating the operation of the sales tax law, said he will ask the committee to recommend employment of "scores of women tax investigators" to ferret out evidence of "chiseling."

"If we would collect all the revenue that should be collected under the sales tax there would be no need for more tax money," Pollock ventured.

The senate committee will meet here Wednesday to launch its sales tax investigation.

At that time Pollock said, he will urge the committee to suggest employment of local women and girls in every county of the state to make purchases and observe the manner in which vendors collect the sales tax.

DAVEY ANGERED BY OSU PREXY

COLUMBUS, June 24.—Verbal brickbats hurled half-way across the state today renewed interest here in the controversy over Gov. Martin L. Davey's budget slash for Ohio State university.

Speaking at a rally of Democrats in Lorain, Governor Davey asserted that "it may be time to look around for a new administration" if the university cannot get along with its reduced appropriation.

John Kaiser of Marietta, chairman of the university's board of trustees, stated when informed of the governor's remarks that he has "every confidence" in President George Rightmire. He added he did not believe the controversy "as serious as either side thinks."

"It is just a case of two men differing," was the way he diagnosed the dispute.

HOG, PORK PRICES HIGHEST SINCE '30

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Hog and pork prices advanced in the latter half of May to the highest since October, 1930, as a result of the smallest slaughter of hogs in May for that month in more than 35 years, the Bureau of Agricultural economics reported today.

Stocks of pork were the smallest on June 1, for that date in the last 20 years, no data on stocks are available prior to 1915. Exports were greatly reduced, and stocks of both pork and lard the smallest in the past two decades.

NEW FDR TAX PLAN NEARING BALLOT TODAY

Definite Instructions from White House Awaited in Congress

LONG, BORAH FOR IT

Vote on Sales Tax to Open Arguments

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Congress was ready today to enact at least a part of President Roosevelt's new share-the-wealth tax program into law at this session. Leaders eagerly sought go-ahead instructions from the White House. They have received reports that the president wants his sensational plans written into law this summer, but they want something specific from him.

The proposed levies would slash deeply into the nation's great personal and corporate fortunes. They include high inheritance and gift taxes on large estates, "very high" taxes on incomes above $1,000,000, and a graduated tax on corporate net incomes ranging from 10% to 16% percent.

Support Growing

Sentiment for immediate action has piled to vigorous proportions. Both Speaker Byrns and the senate Democrat leader, Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas, have joined the chorus of demands that congress settle to work on the tax schedules now. If this is done, the dog days will find the legislators still hard at work.

Senate consideration of the resolution to extend for another year the $500,000,000 of emergency sales taxes which would otherwise expire June 30 will be the signal for open debate on the President's suggestions.

Thus far, only Louisiana's kingfish, Senator Huey P. Long, has discussed the proposal on the floor. Huey said he would go along with the president if he tried to put the taxes through, but added that he doubted if Mr. Roosevelt really wants the schedules imposed.

Borah in Favor

Senator Borah (R.) of Idaho, was the latest member of congress to go on record in favor of action now. He issued a lengthy statement approving the proposals, and said:

"This program out to be considered as a just and timely readjustment of our tax laws in the light of our stupendous expenditures."

TROOPS CALLED IN LUMBER STRIKE

TACOMA, Wash., June 24.—At the order of Gov. Clarence D. Martin, 300 national guard troops marched into Tacoma today to guard eight lumber mills which have opened in an attempt to break the paralyzing lumber strike here.

Decision to move the 2nd battalion of the 161st infantry into the strike area came suddenly late last night after conferences between Gov. Martin of Washington and Gov. Charles H. Martin of Oregon.

A statement in which both governors concurred was issued shortly before the troops rolled into Tacoma in 16 motor trucks. They declared that "law and order must be preserved at all costs."

Grass Root Meeting Showed Hoover Definitely After 1936 Nomination

WASHINGTON — Grapevine reports on the Grass Root confab received by Republican generalissimo on Capitol Hill give some significant highlights on the meeting.

According to these the Springfield gathering established three facts:

1. That Herbert Hoover definitely covets the 1936 nomination.

2. That the former President is not popular with the rank and file.

3. That the field is wide open, none of the other known aspirants as yet displaying strong backing.

The conviction among the inside leaders that Hoover has his eye on next year's banner is based on the large representation of "Hoover men" at the gathering.

Among the most prominent of these were former War Secretary Pat Hurley, former Agriculture Secretary Arthur Hyde, former White House secretary Walter Newton, and "Tanglefoot Bob" Lucas, former Executive Secretary of the Republican National Committee.

The coolness of the delegates toward Hoover was evidenced both publicly and privately. The resolutions adopted contained no mention of him or his Administration either directly or indirectly. Scouts report that in the lobbies and anterooms the sentiment was universal that the party could not make another run with Hoover at its helm.

Other Hopefuls

Of the other hopefuls, the private reports say there was much "talk" but no manifestation of strength.

The name of Frank Knox was the most frequently heard. Senators "Hell-Roaring Dick" Dickinson and Arthur Vandenberg came in for some mention, but the scouts attribute this chiefly to the fact that they are mid-westerners and well known to the delegates.

The real surprise in the gossip about candidates was the frequent and favorable mention of Representative "Ham" Fish, burly New York socialite.

It has been known for some time that Fish was quietly pushing his candidacy, but the leaders were inclined to view this as a joke. They are not taking him seriously even now, but they were impressed by the extent of his proselyting.

Delegates from as widely scattered points as Oklahoma, Indiana and Wisconsin spoke of having been contacted by Fish.

Advertising

Outside the door of the most popular Springfield hotel during the Grass Root convention, a newsboy stood for early morning until late night, shouting:

"Read the Chicago Daily News, the greatest Republican newspaper of the Middle West, published by Frank Knox."

Mitchell Clamor

Most important behind the scenes factors in the Ewing Mitchell clamor about Commerce Department graft are:

1. That Mitchell himself scarcely knew what it was all about. There is plenty of inefficiency in the Commerce Department, but he was not the man to clean it up.

2. There was a bitter row between Mitchell and the Prendergast political machine in Kansas City. Prendergast and the Missouri Senators were out to get Mitchell.

Based solely upon Mitchell's usefulness to the Commerce Department he could have

IN MEMORY OF T. R.

THERE could be nothing more appropriate than the fulfillment of the plan of the government to set aside a vast public recreation area in North Dakota as a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt. The spirit of the strenuous American, now in far-off Valhalla, will view with unrestrained delight this thoughtful tribute by an affectionate and admiring people.

If the field of ecclesiastical authority may with propriety be invaded for just a fleeting instant it will be with the purpose in view of appointing Theodore Roosevelt as patron saint of the great outdoors. No American exemplified more faithfully than he the ideals involved in a love of nature's great masterpieces, the plains and the forests, the mountains, jungles and rivers of his own and other lands.

And this devotion is natural and easily comprehensible. A frail, delicate youngster, he sought and obtained in the sunshine and invigorating atmosphere of the West the qualities necessary for this physical sustenance. On foot, riding trails, sleeping on a bed of pine beneath the stars, he drank in the spirit of the open spaces and came to be during his lifetime a symbol of the best that the great West brought to the nation and its people.

Later, when he had won high place in national affairs, he stood with a few stalwart kindred spirits in the path of the spoilsman who were bent upon exploiting the natural resources of the country for their personal profit.

If there exists in the United States at the present time a greater appreciation of the priceless character of our heritage of rushing streams and wooded hills, mountains and towering pines and oaks and hemlocks, a large measure of the credit must go to Theodore Roosevelt, who lived among them, loved them and sang their glories.

DR. DAFOE IS WRONG

JUST because a doctor presides at the arrival of five children at one birth and has been mainly responsible for their living more than a year does not mean that he knows all there is to know about rearing children. No sir, many a father who has suffered, can tell you there's something the good doc. ought to know.

The doctor is quoted in the public prints as asserting that the remarkable record of the Dionne quintuplets is attributable partly to the fact that he ran the whole show and wasn't bothered by having uncles and aunts tell him what to do. There is much in what the doctor says. The trouble is he doesn't go the whole route.

The good doctor knows, if he knows anything about bringing up children, that the greatest cause of trouble is not the uncles and aunts. It is the grandmas. Next to them are the granddaddies. No scientific proof of this statement is necessary. Ask any father who has been kept awake at night by a baby whose hospital training has been broken by a fond grandma who insisted on "taking up" the baby just because it whimpered or worse yet, insisted on "rocking it to sleep."

Dr. Dafoe is all right as a child specialist, but as a man he's just as spineless as the rest of us who'd rather keep peace with the "in-laws" than show the grandparents, especially "her mother" who is the boss of the house.

NUISANCES

AS generally expected, the so-called nuisance taxes, yielding half a billion dollars a year, have been extended by congress. It merely reminds us that all taxes are nuisances to those who pay them. They are something else only to the collection agencies and to those who are the beneficiaries, or imagine that they are.

If the taxes to which the word "nuisance" has been definitely applied should have any particular merit, it lies in the fact that these special levies on gasoline, motor car accessories and a further extended list of items effect, large numbers of people, who thus are reminded of what it means to do the paying. Since there must be taxation, the principal of this form is as sound as that of any other.

From the West comes a report of the hiring of a murderer for $10, which shows what the abolition of the codes has done to industry.

"When all the newspapers are against a man he must be good," says the Governor of Ohio. Modesty forbids the Governor from mentioning just who the man is that he has in mind.

A Detroit engineer predicts that 160 miles an hour will be the eventual highway speed. This will make it hard for hitch-hikers, who will have to put the thumb in motion while the car is still a mile or two down the road.

Looking Back in Pickaway County

FIVE YEARS AGO

A small cyclone missed the center of town and hit the north end where practically every tree in the vicinity of Northridge-rd was uprooted or damaged. N. Court-st was closed to traffic until the debris could be removed. A twister also struck two miles south of town on the Kingston-pk and did considerable damage. Prior to the storm the temperature reached 95 degrees here.

Dave Courtright, of Circleville, and C. A. Smith, of Chillicothe, started work on a miniature golf course in Seyfert's park.

The annual picnic of the Crist department store was held at Glenwood, near Chillicothe. The store was closed at noon in order that all employees might enjoy the outing.

15 YEARS AGO

Merchandise valued at $500 was stolen from the Colwell & Katz clothing store. Clothing was also taken by the burglars from the George G. Groom tailoring establishment.

George M. Fitzpatrick, chairman, and N. R. Huston, secretary, announced the complete list of committees to plan for the Pumpkin Show.

Members of the Eastern Star had a surprise party for the worthy matron, Mrs. Germain Joseph, the occasion being the 40th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph.

25 YEARS AGO

County Auditor Dodd's annual report showed that Pickaway-co produced 1,202,498 bushels of wheat from 63,261 acres in 1909. The corn crop the same year was 83,285 acres with a yield of 3,354,293 bushels. The total number of horses in the county was 9,609, cattle, 20,977; hogs, 24,039; sheep, 8,482.

A three-day fair held by the C. A. C. on the club grounds netted the organization $500. Managers of the fair were Robert Brehmer, Edward Schreiner and Henry Joseph.

Joint memorial services were held at Amanda by the Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows and Red Men. Meeker Terwilliger, of Circleville, delivered the address.

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE BY BELLE BURNS GROMER

CHAPTER 36

BY LATE June the rudder was completed and proved, yet Val found himself daily postponing his report to Captain Edding. What delayed him from turning his device over to the navy he could not himself clearly understand. Whereupon he began to avoid the plunging question. He resolved to put off its solution until after the expiration of his two weeks' leave which was to start within a few days.

Added to this quandary he was worried by the widening breach between Lia and himself. For from the day, not long after her birthday, when he had definitely refused Maurice Cordray's proposition that he resign from the navy and allow the boat-builder to put his invention on the market, Lia had reproached him bitterly. Since her arguments had proved futile, she had sunk into a moody lethargy during which, clad in the inevitable Chinese robe, bracelet, clinking, claret in a jade holder, she lay on the satin divan for sullen hours at a stretch. Indeed, these last few days, she disturbed this smoldering passivity only when she slipped out alone for the long strolls she took in the dusk or at night.

On the evening before Val's leave started, she was wrapped in a cloud of this unhappy silence. Val watched her with troubled eyes and presently he crossed to seat himself beside her and catch her inert hand in his warm brown fingers.

"I know I've left you too much alone lately," he said slowly. "I can understand it has been dull for you with me chugging away everlastingly on the rudder. But now that's finished and out of the picture. My leave is here. And so let's step out and have a swell holiday. Shall we? We'll dine, dance and take in all the new shows in Seattle. The tennis and golf are perfect this sunny weather. I'll even try to manage a trip to Victoria. If you say so, and we'll play the idle rich at the Empress for a day or two."

That roused her until she found his plans included only themselves. "Let's invite the crowd to Victoria," she coaxed. "I'd adore that. It's great fun up there. And I know, if you suggested it, Maurice Cordray would take us on his yacht."

"Listen, I'm not asking favors of Cordray," he broke in impatiently. "And I wish I could make you understand that living on my salary can't include entertaining a crowd. I've explained a dozen times, dear. The stocks I have left pay no dividends. I've had one salary cut and am likely to have another."

"Please don't start that tiresome talk again," she pleaded wearily. "Scrimping! Poverty! I'm so bored and sick of it. When you have only to enjoy every luxury. But you've been unreasonable about everything lately. Fancy not even being able to invite our friends to have a cocktail with us in this silly old yard. I notice, though, it doesn't keep you from having your own highballs whenever you want them. And that's pretty often, if you ask me."

A passionate quarrel followed that left her sullen and unforgiving. Even on the next morning when Val begged her to celebrate the first day of his leave by naming any amusement that would please her, she said coldly: "I didn't sleep last night and today I'd just like to be quiet and alone. Please go to the Linburys' picnic. Little Mimi Edding came yesterday to remind me of the date, but you were so unpleasant last evening it went right out of my mind."

The injured note in her voice infuriated him. She was being unfair and unkind. What was more, he was determined not to sit in the house on this first glorious day of his leave and watch her sulk. And so when Jan's old sister, Mimi, called from the porch, he strode out to tell her he'd be ready in 10 minutes. After he had changed to white sweater, slacks and espadrilles from Mediterranean days, he came to say good-by. But Lia lay quietly on the divan, pretending to be asleep, and did not return his kiss.

The admiral had loaned his gig and in this the party of nine grown-ups and three children—the Linburys and their two youngsters, Kent Townley, Jan, the Cromwells, the young Biddles from a visiting destroyer, Mimi and Val—set out along Fletcher's bay and on past Crystal Springs. A windless Sunday morning, it was the sort of blue and green summer day peculiar to this charmed land of the northwest; the bay waters, like peacock-blue glass, mirrored the frost-plushed hills on either shore. Against a brilliant azure sky, warm with sunlight, the paler blue hydra-headed Olympics reared their snowy peaks.

Stretched on the deck in the hot sun Val tried to forget the tense little figure at home and nervously spun stories for the three youngsters. These were Tommy, a fat, giggling lad with a comic blank space where his front teeth should be; adoring Mimi of the taffy-colored hair, with proprietary arm linked through Val's; and the smug, apple-cheeked gypsy Sybil, who, not to be outdone, had appropriated his other side.

Jan, in white linen sport dress and with a red silk bandana knotted about her bright hair, waved an indolent hand and smiled in his direction. "My sincere gratitude, mother's helper," she called softly. Kent Townley, who lately had grown a devilishly becoming mustache, lounged on the deck beside her, looking like a handsome buccannier in dark blue slacks, beret and striped jersey.

Nora Cromwell, her thin torso topping a pair of legs any Follies girl might covet, sat nearby chatting with Rita Linbury and young Mrs. Biddle. Val had paid no attention to their conversation until a stray sentence or two suddenly snatched at his interest. "—and everyone else suspected how he got that job with Cordray," he was galvanized to hear Mrs. Cromwell say. "He is a dear youngster and it maddens me to see that red-head make a fool of him. If I'm not mistaken, though, she is beginning to pay the piper."

The children clamored for him to continue the exciting tale he had been recounting so that he lost the rest of Mrs. Cromwell's remarks. However, he guessed it had been Sue and Brad they discussed, and a furious impulse to deny their impu-ritations gripped him. Why shouldn't any commercial plane builder be eager to employ the navy's finest flyer? Hadn't Brad already landed three big contracts for Cordray? And if he, Val, had lately suspected there might be more than a casual friendship between Sue and Brad's boss, still in all fairness he had to admit he had never seen the man show Sue any more special attention than he offered Lia, for instance, or a half dozen other pretty women.

The stopping of the engine broke in on his disturbed thoughts and he saw that the launch had approached a sandy strip of beach. Here they dropped anchor and, laden with baskets, picnic cases and all the other paraphernalia, the party rowed ashore in the dinghy. From this point they penetrated some distance inland until the sun-laced trail, flanked by tangles of salmonberry and yew, led them finally to an open grassy glade where they pitched their camp by a spring.

With that first plunge into the still forest, Val sensed the healing peace that lay in the shadow of the great cedars; he felt his nerves relax and spirits grow lighter; and now, to the music of a portable victrola, he with the others set blithely about their allotted tasks. Alderwood was cut for the fires, rack stoves were set up, the improvised table laid, baskets opened and the latest magazines and Sunday papers spread about.

At once Val saw that this was to be no staid sandwich and dill pickle affair. He sniffed appreciatively of the perfume of fern brake and musty cedar blended with the redolent fragrance of wood smoke and the tantalizing odors of food cooked in the open. On the racks a great coffee pot soon bubbled; diced potatoes flecked with bits of bacon sputtered in the frying pans; beneath the second rack glowing alder coals simultaneously broiled and lent their delicious tang of smoky seasoning to the thick steaks that had been rubbed with a paste of mustard, butter and onion juice. Set out on the table were the crisp, green up-curved leaves of a salad in a Cantonware bowl; the frosting of a huge angel-fudge cake glistened like snow in sunlight; a basket of fruit and bottles of milk were in evidence for the youngsters. When the steaks were done to a turn, salted, peppered and carved into juicy strips, everyone of the party fell to like starving folk.

THEATRES

AT THE CIRCLE

Because she is of Chinese extraction, Anna May Wong was a peculiarly good selection for the feminine leading role of "Zahrat," the Mongolian Slave girl, in "Chu Chin Chow," the big Oriental musical picture now playing at the Circle Theatre. But her versatility is so developed that she is never at a loss in depicting a character, whatever its nationality may be, as her past performances prove.

In 1928, Miss Wong left Hollywood on a contract to appear in German films. In Berlin, her first picture, "Tsong," was an immediate success, and later she was co-starred with Gilda Gray in "Piccadilly," by a London company. Returning to Berlin, she made "The Pavement Butterfly."

AT THE GRAND

The town is still shaking its sides with the earthquake that blew up yesterday. It happened in connection with the opening of Will Rogers' comedy, "Life Begins At 40."

Normal conditions are not yet restored. Nor will they be until this laugh producer has completed its successful three-day engagement at the Grand Theatre.

This Fox Film picture surely uncorks a new elixir of fun. The audience was in an unrestrained uproar. Laugh succeeded laugh. Fun came in storms, in gales, in a veritable tornado. The funny-bones were overworked.

After this, one may return to a studied understatement and report that "Life Begins At 40," is the season's blithest screen comedy, Will Rogers' crowning triumph, and the entertainment event of a lifetime.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The most talked of stars in Hollywood came to the screen as a new co-starring team in the picture, "Reckless," which opened Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre. And those two stars are Jean Harlow and William Powell.

The picture is one of the most thrilling and colorful ones in recent months. It is the story of a beautiful blonde dancer who rises from a back-country carnival dancer to the golden lights of Broadway, a dancing star who becomes a nationwide sensation, who marries a playboy with millions, who captures society by her charm.

Our system is dependent upon paying high wages so that working people can buy.—Henry Ford.

Fly Plague Still Worries Egypt, Physician Discovers

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

HALF WAY up the Nile, which is where I now am, the plague of flies is still an evident part of Egyptian life. An American naturally wonders how anyone can endure such living conditions without employing comforts that are to us the most ordinary routine commonplace.

There are only two rooms with screens on the screens on the windows in the hotel where I am staying. I have one of them, you can bet your sweet life. But the door of my room into the hallway is about a yard from an open window without a screen on it. The flies swarm in and out. It takes me two minutes to drive them away before I dare open the door to go into my room, and then your correspondent executes a maneuver to jump into the room and slam the door which, for expedition, excites the intense amusement of the chambermaid (said "chambermaid" is an Arabian gentleman about six feet two inches tall and weighing 250 pounds).

Yet, the Egyptians knew the relationship between flies and disease thousands of years ago. One of the plagues of Egypt has been the eye disease, trachoma. I was warned to be careful of allowing flies to light near my eyes, because they are attracted by the secretions oozing from the infected eye, and carry the infection to the stranger. At Comambo, far up the Nile, is a stone tablet showing one of the Pharaohs pleading to Imhotep, the physician-god of Egypt. A fly is shown on the border of the Pharaoh's eye, and he says in the hieroglyphic inscription attached, "See, a fly has lighted on my eye and brought a germ there which is causing me more pain than

I can stand. Please give me something to heal me."

As a matter of fact, I saw very little trachoma in Egypt. The health authorities evidently are working hard on the problem, and succeeding, just as our own health authorities are. We need to be humble, knowing our own terrible trachoma problem among the country, mountainous districts of Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Arkansas.

My guide regarded the flies covertly. "I supposed it is impossible to avoid flies in any tropical country," he said. When I described the function of screens he was unable to comprehend the idea. In the dining room in this hotel there is not a single screen, and many delegations of flies know the minute you start to eat and come to help you.

Even more terrifying to me than the flies were the mosquitoes. One lit on my bedpost my first night there, and examining it closely with a hand glass, I found that it was the kind that carried malaria, as near as I could remember the pictures. I tucked the edges of the mosquito netting over my bed carefully. In and out the mattress, he still fell asleep only with considerable apprehension. Malaria is something I don't want.

So far as water supply is concerned, Egypt is in very good condition. The water of the Nile is, of course, perfectly filthy, but as Luxor, which is only a small village, I inspected a modern water plant where the water is filtered, sterilized and inspected very efficiently—probably far better than in some of our politically managed American cities.

MAINE 18 TEAMS-OF-8

THE MAINE BRIDGE LEAGUE had in this past season 18 Teams-of-Eight. Many interesting hands were played in their numerous contests. Thanks to the kindness of John B. Thomas, Portland, some of the most interesting hands will be available to our readers. Here is a sample, perfectly played by Mr. Thomas.

♠ A K 9
♥ 10 4
♦ A 9 3
♣ K 9 8 5 4

♠ J 8 7 5
♥ 3 2
♦ 10 3 5 4

♠ A K 7 6
♥ 5 8 2
♦ Q 6
♣ J 6 2

♠ 10 6 4
♥ Q J
♦ K J 7 2
♠ A Q 10 3

Bidding went: West, 1-Heart; North, doubled; South, 3-Clubs, to show real strength; West, 3-Hearts; North, 5-Clubs.

West's hearts won the first two tricks. East echoed to show partner the number held by declarer. West's third lead was the Q of spades, at first appearing as if he held the J also. Dummy's K won. East played the 3.

The next three tricks were won with the top trump honors. On the second trump led, East dropped the 2 of spades, showing the J. Then he discarded another spade.

After the sixth trick West's original holding of 7 hearts, 3 clubs and 3 combined spades and diamonds could be counted. As West had led a spade instead of a diamond, it appeared as if he might hold the Q of diamonds, once guarded. The Ace and K of diamonds won the next two tricks; the Q being picked-up on the second round of the suit, making it clear that East still held 2 diamonds and 3 spades, requiring a squeeze to win the last five tricks for declarer. West held only 5 hearts. Declarer and dummy held the 5 cards shown below.

Dummy ♠ A 9 ♥ 9 ♦ 9 8 ♣ 10

Declarer ♠ 10 6 ♥ J 7 ♦ 10 ♣ 10

Declarer's last trump was led. East had to let go another spade, leaving him only the J-8 of that suit and the 10-8 of diamonds. A spade put North in with his Ace, then dummy's last trump was led at the deadly eleventh trick, forcing East to discard either his good spade or to let go one of his two blocking diamonds. Declarer's last spade was discarded, leaving East to mull over things. East knew what faced him, as well as if he saw declarer's cards. He fiercely remarked: "I could see it coming." He let go one of his diamonds, keeping the good J of spades. The 9 of diamonds was led. East's 10 covered and declarer's J and 7 of that suit won the tenth and eleventh offensive tricks, thus completing the high contract undertaken through excellent team bidding and perfect play.

18 CLEVELAND BAKERIES CLOSE

CLEVELAND, June 24—With 18 of the largest bakeries in Cleveland closed voluntarily because of the Bakery Drivers union strike at two companies, the hundreds of small neighborhood bake shops today prepared to do a "land office" business.

Approximately 2,650 bakery workers, including 650 drivers and 2,000 inside employees, were thrown out of work by the shutdown of the large bakeries.

Companies said they took the action because they did not want drivers subjected to the risk of violence, because they did not want customers subjected to the risk of violence and threats, and because "we do not want to subject ourselves to the possibilities of having further strikes called without notice, which would leave us with thousands of dollars of perishable goods on our hands."

TWO DOMESTICS JAILED IN DEATH

Long Island Broker-Sportsman Found Dead in Car; Fumes Are Blamed.

ATLANTIC BEACH, N. Y., June 24—Two pretty young servant girls from western Pennsylvania, today found themselves entangled in the mystic surrounding the death of a young Long Island broker-sportsman.

After being questioned all night, Dorothea Kassady, 20, was held by District Attorney Martin Littleton of Nassau-co on a charge of first degree manslaughter, in connection with the death of John L. Barnes, 30, of S. A. Cliff. The Kassady girl's friend, Irene Baranovic, 19, was held as a material witness.

Burness was found dead yesterday slumped over the wheel of his automobile in a garage adjoining the cottage of his friend, William Brown, 30, an insurance man, by whom the Kassady girl was employed as a housemaid.

The girl signed a confession, police said, in which it was said she struck Burness over the head with a hammer in a quarrel over money and then left him to die of carbon monoxide poisoning.

An autopsy performed by Dr. Howard W. Neall, noted pathologist, contradicted the girl's story, however, it was said. Dr. Neall declared Burness died from the effects of the automobile's exhaust and that any blows Burness might have received were inflicted after death.

Detectives who questioned the two girls said they told three different stories.

SEEK POWER PLANT

18 CLEVELAND BAKERIES CLOSE

CLEVELAND, June 24—With 18 of the largest bakeries in Cleveland closed voluntarily because of the Bakery Drivers union strike at two companies, the hundreds of small neighborhood bake shops today prepared to do a "land office" business.

Approximately 2,650 bakery workers, including 650 drivers and 2,000 inside employees, were thrown out of work by the shutdown of the large bakeries.

Companies said they took the action because they did not want drivers subjected to the risk of violence, because they did not want customers subjected to the risk of violence and threats, and because "we do not want to subject ourselves to the possibilities of having further strikes called without notice, which would leave us with thousands of dollars of perishable goods on our hands."

TWO DOMESTICS JAILED IN DEATH

Long Island Broker-Sportsman Found Dead in Car; Fumes Are Blamed.

ATLANTIC BEACH, N. Y., June 24—Two pretty young servant girls from western Pennsylvania, today found themselves enmeshed in the mystery surrounding the death of a young Long Island broker-sportsman.

After being questioned all night, Dorothea Kassady, 20, was held by District Attorney Martin Littleton of Nassau-co on a charge of first degree manslaughter, in connection with the death of John L. Burness 30, of Sea Cliff. The Kassady girl's friend, Irene Borozovic, 19, was held as a material witness.

Burness was found dead yesterday slumped over the wheel of his automobile in a garage adjoining the cottage of his friend, William B. Own, 30, an insurance man, by whom the Kassady girl was employed as a housemaid.

The girl signed a confession, police said, in which it was said she struck Burness over the head with a hammer in a quarrel over money and then left him to die of carbon monoxide poisoning.

An autopsy performed by Dr. Howard W. Neill, noted pathologist, contradicted the girl's story, however, it was said. Dr. Neill declared Burness died from the effects of the automobile's exhaust and that any blows Burness might have received were inflicted after death.

Detectives who questioned the two girls said they told three different stories.

SEEK POWER PLANT

LIMA, June 24—A municipal power plant to provide power for street lighting and municipal institutions is to be sought for this city through a PWA grant. Plans are being drawn for the application.

DESPONDENT, DIES

NEWARK, June 24—Despondency over the death of her husband in a motor accident five weeks ago, caused Mrs. Gladys Moody, 18, to end her life with poison. They had been married only a few weeks when her husband was killed.

"Anthony Adverse" just isn't in it with the Congressional Record after a Huey Long filibuster.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout troop No. 4 had planned a hike for the morning of June 21, but as the rain prevented, we held a regular meeting in the afternoon in the absence of the Presbyterian church.

We opened with a game and a signalling drill, after which we had our business session. Mary Fickard presented plans for a trip to Meade, to be made next Wednesday. The troop will meet at the church at 2:30 p. m. each member bringing her own lunch. We will return at 9 p. m.

After another game and songs, the meeting closed with taps.

SPECIALS AND FEEDS MIX IT IN 'REC' LOOP

Second Round of First Half Starts; Cities Service Team on Top Loop.

Circleville recreation ball league teams will go at it again this evening as the second round of the first half opens on the SOElectric Co. field between the Jones Specials and Eshelman Feeds. One game remains in the first round between the Pickaway Dairy and Jones Specials and that will be played Friday evening.

The league is still a wide open affair although the Cities Service Oils are resting on top of the heap. The team has been beaten though so none in the league are invincible.

The Specials will use Bob Jones and the Eshelmans Carl Purcell on the hill this evening in an effort to enter the second round in the right manner.

Other games are:

Tuesday: Circleville Oils vs. Pickaway Dairy.

Wednesday: Cities Service Oils vs. Purina Chows.

Thursday: Eshelman Feeds vs. Circleville Oils.

Ashville Divides

Ashville took a surprising thump on the chin Sunday by losing the first game of a double bill with Derby's entrant. The villagers won the second, however, behind the hurling of Lefty Swinehart.

Art Meier, dependable right hander, was clubbed for eight runs in the first inning with Mettles holding Ashville safe until the last two innings when they scored six runs.

Swinehart gave only five hits in the nightcap, scattering them, while Bellman and Francis gave only five for Derby but they were bunched.

Columbus Police beat Obetz twice, Gahanna won the only game played from Grove City and Brice took two from Lafayette.

Cubs Win, 12-2

Bill Howe's Cubs won a 12-2 hard ball game from Williamsport Sunday on the SOElectric Co. lot. Whaley was effective on the hill for the Howe-men. He also hit a triple.

Next Sunday the Cubs will play the Tarleton team here.

OWENS ATTEMPTS CENTURY RECORD

BERKELEY, Cal., June 24.—If attendance at the San Diego world fair is not doubled Thursday there is only one answer—the patrons have not been reading about the super-human feats of Jesse Owens, the great Ohio State athlete, who undoubtedly is a "one man track team."

Owens won four events—the 100-yard dash, 220, low hurdles, and the broad jump—Saturday in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's annual championships here.

Owens was second to the University of Southern California, who by sheer manpower defeated Owens and won the team title.

In his appearance at the fair Thursday, Owens will attempt to set a 100-yard record.

Among the parting tributes paid the great star, Coach Brutus Hamilton of the University of California declared Owens "is the greatest athlete of his time."

British statesman says his country's tied up with Europe only by reason of geography. And the fact that Great Britain has never had one of our dust storms.

John Hancock's signature on the Declaration of Independence was so large that his name has been synonymous with signature ever since.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends and we decay because of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay in our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

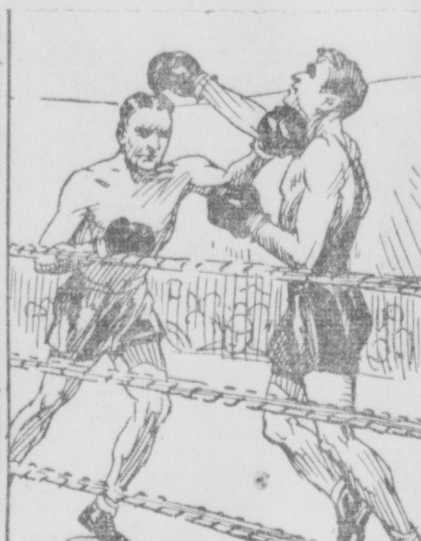

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and 80% of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decayed food is a poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whiffed lemon, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently stir the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it. For it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25¢. ©1934, C.M. Co.

STORY OF BRADDOCK No. 4—Defeat, Poverty

The future seemed bright for Jimmy Braddock when he knocked out Tuffy Griffiths, and stopped Jimmy Slattery in nine rounds. He was matched with Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight title in 1929.

Loughran was a great fighter at that time, with a marvelous left hand. He kept Braddock at bay with rapier-like jabs, and made Jimmy's haymaking rights look like the awkward swings of a preliminary boy.

After losing to Loughran, Braddock started to slip. In the years from 1929 to 1933, he was punched around by a dozen second-rate fighters whose names have drifted into obscurity.

With three children and a wife to support, Braddock a year and a half ago had to return to his old job as stevedore. The path to fame seemed forever closed to him. Ring earnings melted away in the depression.

In the grip of the depression, the Braddocks were forced to place their names on the relief rolls. Jimmy was not able to find enough work on the docks to earn for them the bare necessities of life.

Then, about a year ago, Joe Gould suddenly appeared and told Braddock he had a fight for him with Corn Griffin, one of Primo Carnera's sparring partners. It was a preliminary to the Carnera-Baer bout.

Anything May Happen in Carnera and Louis Joust

NEW YORK, June 24.—They're talking today about a sixty to seventy thousand crowd, including the first lady, Mrs. Roosevelt, and the governors of four adjacent states. They're talking of a possible $400,000 gate and perhaps again as much in bets. They feel, in fact, that we're all on the verge of something tremendous with this mixed heavyweight fight tomorrow night between Primo Carnera, the Lummo, and Joe Louis, the octoon with the green, uninking eyes of a great cat, and none can even guess what may be in store.

There's a touch of dynamite in this one, supposedly in the bleachers where Harlem will be encircled, but notably in the ring where a giant of a man who likes to play rough will be doing business with a cold, silent "killer" about whom there seems to be something not quite human. We haven't had anything like this in years and not only this town but others are responding.

Fans were on their way in today from Detroit, where Louis lives, and from Chicago, where he made his best fights, and from Pittsburgh, where he made a few others. It's probably at once the biggest and most inflammable of all the heavyweight fights we've had since Tunney and Dempsey.

Whether the Mrs. Roosevelt item is genuine or the inspiration of a press agent one can not say, the only word being that the tickets were ordered, ostensibly for Mrs. Roosevelt, through the secretary of Mr. James A. Farley, the postmaster general.

Runners at Lancaster

Local race track enthusiasts will probably be saving their nickels this week for a trip to Lancaster where running races are opening—the track is one-half mile and Harry Shepard and his Beulah Park cohorts will be in charge.

PACETTI, BIG TEN GRIDDER, SUICIDES

MADISON, Wis., June 24.—Three thwarted ambitions, momentous in his own eyes, were blamed today for the self-inflicted death of Wario Pacetti, 21-year-old star athlete at the University of Wisconsin. Only a few days before he was to depart for the United States military academy at West Point, to which he had been recently appointed, the handsome youth was found dead yesterday in a rented sedan, parked on a lonely road near town.

Although no notes were found to explain Pacetti's act, friends recalled that he had been bitterly disappointed by his failure to be elected captain of the 1934 Wisconsin team on which he starred for three years.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

Pitts Hit Apple

Part of the answer to the question: "Can Alabama Pitts make good?" was answered Sunday when he slugged out two hits in the first game of his "inaugural" in organized baseball—He played well in the Albany outfield, too, although his team lost a pair of encounters.

RULING HELPS CITIES WITH POWER PLANT

Judge in New York Rules
Municipalities May Profit
From Their Plants.

ALBANY, June 24.—In a decision without precedent in New York state, Supreme Court Justice Charles V. Schenck today ruled that a municipality may make a profit from operation of its own electric plant and apply the earnings to tax reduction and other municipal purposes.

The decision was in favor of the village of Booneville, which has operated a municipal plant since 1904. When the village sought to use $15,000 a year of its profits for tax reduction, the public service commission stepped in last March 27 with an order that rate be reduced instead.

Governor Lehman repeatedly has taken the position that municipal power plants should be without profit and devoted solely to the task of offering service at the lowest possible rates. This view is disputed sharply by Justice Schenck in granting Booneville an order staying the Public Service commission rate reduction order until the appellate division has a chance to review it.

While the case applies directly to Booneville, it is of major importance to nearly 75 New York state communities, which either are operating power plants or propose to do so. New York City is one of them.

Dere. Waley, who pleaded guilty to kidnaping little George Weyerhaeuser, is in the federal penitentiary at McNeil island serving the 45-year term imposed by Judge Cushman Friday.

Waley will be available only as a defense witness, according to Prosecutor Dennis.

"I can not place Waley on the stand to testify against his wife, as federal law prohibits a husband from giving incriminating testimony against his mate. If the Waleys had not been married, the case would be different," Dennis said.

Dere's Wife's Guilt

been fired long ago. But Secretary Dan Roper, a dodger, not a doer—postponed the unpleasantness.

Probable result of the furor will be tightening up of the Steamboat Inspection Service—which passed the Morro Castle—and also of the Bureau of Air Commerce. In both there is a long record of kowtowing to Big Business.

Roosevelt-Astor

Mitchell's talk of Shipping Board favors is an old story. There is one part, however, which remains partly untold. This involves the relationship between the President and Vincent Astor. The friendship between Franklin Roosevelt, his cousin Kermit, and Astor—the latter two chief owners of the International Mercantile Marine—the trips on the Astor yacht Nourmahal and the laying up of Leviathan by the I. M. M. with Roosevelt's permission undoubtedly will figure in the next campaign.

All this is realized by the President. His advisers have hammered it home time after time. But he remains adamant.

His comeback is that Vincent Astor is one of his best friends, that Astor would cut off his hand before asking a favor and that he, Roosevelt, will not let an old friendship be marred by any catering to public appearances.

As for the Leviathan, the President has told his friends that if it had belonged to any company other than I. M. M. it would have been laid up a year earlier; that its operation was uneconomic and the Government profited by getting the I. M. M. to build a new ship.

So despite campaign ammunition and Mitchell charges, Roosevelt intends to go fishing on the Astor yacht when ever and where ever he pleases.
